G. O. P. CLAIMS BOTH HOUSES OF CONGRESS

Republican Victory Is Conceded by N. Y. Democratic Papers

HAYS SEES SENATE BY 5, HOUSE BY 35

Democrats Forecast Senate by One, House by Narrow Margin

HAM LEWIS DEFEATED

Count Now Stands: G. O. P., 224; Democrats, 200: 11 in Doubt

New York, Nov. 6.

Republican national headquarters issued a statement early this afternoon claiming a majority of at least five, and nossibly six, in the United States Senate. Election of 230 Republicans to the House was claimed, giving fifty five majority.

Fall's election as a Republican In New Mexico was declared certain. Both the New York Times and the New York World this morning concede that the Republican party will control the next Congress. The Times foresees a majority of four in the Senate and nineteen in the House.

Democratic Claims

Democratic national committee headquarters claimed the Senate would be Democratic by at least one, and that final returns also would show a small margin for the Democrats in the House, Democratic headquarters claim as "certain" 214 members of the House, soncede 205 to the Republicans and claim the Nonpartisan League representatives elected will vote with the Democrats. The Republicans however, claim a gain of twenty-six in the House, with a resultant majority of thirty-five there.

With thirty Democratic S-nators in cumbent and twelve others elected in the solid South, Democratic headquarters counted on seven more-one each from Missouri, Massachusetts, Montana,
Missouri, Nevada, Oregon and Idaho—a total of forty-nine.

The Democrats refuse yet to concede defeat of Senator Shafroih in Colorado and Lewis in Illinois. They also entertain hopes for Watson in West Virginia, strong Democratic mining districts not yet having been heard from, they say.

They list as "doubtful" New Mexico, 'yoming, New Jersey, New Hampshire and Delaware, all of which early re-turns indicate have gone Republican. Returns received by the Republica, committee were said to show definitely the election of forty-nine Democratic Senators, while in the House 215 seats were assigned to the Democrats, 201 to the Republicans and the remainder in tenth.

Republican Senate Gains sublicans have gained seven seats in the Senate and lost one to the Demorats. Senators elected by l to take the places of sitting Democrats were Ball, in Delaware, in place of Sen-ator Saulsbury; Gooding, Republican, in pifice of Senator Nugent, in Idaho, Phipps in Colorado, in place of Senator Shafroth: McCormick, in Illinois, in place of Senator Lewis (the Democratic whip of the upper body); Capper, in Kansas, in place of Senator Thompson; Ceyes, in New Hampshire, in place Senator Hollis, and Spencer, in Mis-souri, over former Governor Folk.

The Republicans appear to have lost to former Governor Walsh the place now held by Sefator Weeks, of Massachusetts. Reports of the contest in Nevada, which has been hotly contested by the Republicans, were not conclusive to an early hour.

50 to 46 Senate Division

On the most definite figures obtain-able, the Republicans will have control of the Senate by a majority of four, the leated party division being fifty Re-blicans and forty-six Democrats. The sent Senate contains fifty-two Demoorats and forty-four Republicans.
In the contest for the House of Repres crats and the Democrats eight ats from the Republicans. These figures make the next House stand: Republicans, 224; Democrats, 200; with eleven seats still in doubt.

Gain Two in Pennsylvania

Gains by the Republicans included if the ratio is maintained in the four seats in Kansas, three in Indians, two in Pennsylvania, two in West Virrality will be close to 50,000, ginis, two in Ohio, two in Nebraska, two in New York, one in Kentucky, one in Missouri, where Champ Clark (Dem.) was apparently defeated; one in Mary-land, one in New Jersey, one in Rhode lefand, one in Colorado and one in Delaware, making twenty-four in all.
